What Is Needed.

There could be no better time than now for a revision of the tariff laws. To fix them on a basis that will remove their inequalities and make them beneficial in a like degree to all interests, is the great economic desideratum of the time.

Since the present tariff was established there have been changes in business relations so radical that it is obvious that protective measures which some years ago were of general advantage are not now equal and impartial in the distribution of their benefits. That is the reason why it is seen that one class is greatly benefited, reaping a harvest of millions, while another and much the larger class has been having no advantage from a protective system that should be equally beneficial to all.

The time has come for fixing the tariff on a basis that shall be just to all classes and equal in its effects upon all interests. A Republican Senate Committee during President Arthur's administration reported that a revision of the tariff laws was necessary and would be generally advantageous in its results, but when the different interests were consulted there was such a clamor for preference and such selfish claims put in for special advantages that the scheme of tariff revision fell through in consequence of those disagreements.

The Republicans having failed in a work so necessary to be done, the Democrats are now confronted by the duty of making a judicious revision which shall put the tariff on a basis that will make it equal in its benefits and its burdens, and as just to all and injurious to none as it can possibly be made. (Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot.

We are for Colonel Thomas L. Jones, of Newport, for Governor, with Colonel F. S. Owens, of Mayville, for Lieutenant Governor. There seems to be a disposition on the part of a portion of the Democratic press to "tuck" the former gentleman away in some foreign port, but it won't work. The people of Kentucky want Colonel Jones. He is a worthy gentleman and has worked hard for the party. Give him something to show your appreciation for his services. The latter gentleman, Colonel Owens, was on Luke P. Blackburn's staff and, if we make no mistake, also on the staff of our present Governor. He is a quiet, unassuming gentleman, a staunch Democrat and will command a large following. (Brecken Chronicle.

A report was sent out from Washington last Wednesday that Collector Bronson of the Eighth Kentucky District, had been asked to resign, and that Judge M. H. Owsley would be appointed to succeed him. The latter gentleman says he has no desire to supplant Bronson, and will not accept the office if tendered to him. It is thought there is no truth in the report.

The second number of the Truth, the latest venture in the newspaper business at Louisville has been received. If it keeps up its present appearance it will always remain a bright and interesting sheet. Its management is one of acknowledged journalistic ability and experience and deserves success in the undertaking.

COLONEL W. W. BALDWIN, of Mason, will probably be chosen for Governor at the next election. He will receive a large following in the "Blue Grass Region." (Brecken Chronicle.

The receipts of wheat at Minneapolis for this month will reach nearly 7,000,000 bushels, against 5,000,000 for the same month last year.

SAM RANDALL, of Pennsylvania, predicts the success of the Democrats in New York next week.

The hub and spoke factory is doing a rushing business. Shipments are made to all parts of the country, one being made to California last week. The product of this factory is in great demand, and the manager states that they do not have sufficient room on their grounds to carry on the business. This shows that well managed manufacturing can accomplish in Lexington. (Transcript.

VERY CROOKED.

The Tabor Divorce Case Develops Some Startling Revelations.
BOSTON, Oct. 31.—In the Tabor divorce case Mrs. Tabor's examination was concluded. She explained various minor matters, fully denying all damaging allegations of appellants' witnesses. Mrs. Emma Gilman, Mr. Gilman and Mrs. Eva Johnson testified that Mrs. Tabor's study was a place of common resort by the chaste members for eating lunches, leaving wraps, coats, etc. Mrs. Tabor was there no more frequently than others. Specific testimony was offered as to Mr. Tabor's jealousy.

Moses Smith, a lodger at 7 Dorset Street, testified that the keyhole to the room was very large and that it was customary to hang clothes over them to prevent spying.—Deacon Harry E. Scripps, aged 18, said to be the youngest deacon in the world, testified that when his church committee visited Tabor to have him lay his trouble before the church they were repeatedly insulted, and that Tabor called a policeman to put them out.

Anna McKinnon gave damaging testimony concerning Mr. Tabor's intimacy with Mrs. Lincoln. Professor L. T. Townsend, of Boston university, testified that Mr. Tabor kept company with his seamstress, Mrs. Lincoln, pretending to witness that he was single. Professor Townsend's daughter testified to "doublely love" Mr. Tabor, and possibly have seen any portion of the interior of Down's study below the top of the book-case at the time he claimed to see improper intimacy through the transom.

TERRIBLE STORM.

Impaired in a Light House With Death Waves Dashing over.
CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—A most severe storm struck this city. Twelve men were at work on the new break water light-house, about a mile off the mouth of the river. When the storm came up they were asked to go ashore, but refused to do so, not wishing to lose the time. The gale increased in fury and no doubt that it was willing to undertake the rescue of the men, and they were compelled to stay in the light-house all night.

A tug was sent out after them, and after considerable difficulty succeeded in getting the men ashore where dead than alive. They relate a horrible night's experience. The waves dashed over the structure with fearful fury and cannon like reports were heard threatening every minute to crush it to pieces. The loophole for fresh air could not be opened on account of the heavy sea and they were compelled to stand packed together like sardines. The men say they had given up all hope of being rescued. In fact, several of the men were compelled to jump one at a time from the light house to the deck of the tug. Vessels arriving report a terrible night's experience. Old sailors say it was the blizzard experienced in several years, and that it is certain that much damage to shipping has been done. As yet no casualties have been reported.

The Negro as a Laborer.

Bill Arp's Letter.
The negro worker strikes. He just quits when he gets ready. If he hires to you for a year, a month, or a week, you must be like it, and the only way to keep him is to keep back part of his pay. The negro has a mental reservation in all his contracts, but still nobody is taken by surprise, for we know of the reservation. Mr. Samuel N. of Annapolis, says he has tried all kinds of labor and paid the negro that it is the most reliable and the easiest to manage. That is peculiarly so with Mr. N. for he is the best manager of the negro I ever saw. He makes them respect and fear him. They love the dominion of such a man. Then again he has them in rows where they can work together and talk. They like that. The negroes around me will report to any shift faster than work alone. They get together from their farms and pull each other's folder and pick each other's out. They like to work where there is a church and a preacher, and lots of company.
